Introduction

This policy is an expression of the first ethical precept taught by the Buddha: to protect living beings from harm. It is based on law, regulation and best practice in England and Wales.

The purpose of this policy

This document is for everyone involved in NBO activities, as trustees, committee members, employees, volunteers, leaders, teachers or parents.

It aims to provide

- Protection for all adults attending NBO activities, including those who may be at risk of harm
- protection for all NBO trustees, committee members, staff, volunteers.

It sets out

- information and practices contributing to the prevention of harm to adults.
- what to do if harm is suspected.

Our values

As the trustees of the NBO we wish all adults who come into contact with our charity in any way to flourish through their engagement with the Buddha, Dharma and Sangha.

We recognise an ethical duty to prevent or address harm to all adults in the course of our activities, including adults who may be at risk of harm or have care and support needs, as set out by the Charity Commission for England and Wales in its latest guidance:

<https://www.gov.uk/guidance/safeguarding-duties-for-charity-trustees>

The types of harm we have a duty to prevent and address are listed in Appendix 1; they apply by law to the care of adults who are deemed formally vulnerable or 'at risk'. However, this list also provides a guide as to the types of harm we must be alert to prevent or address in the case of all adults.

The NBO is primarily a networking organisation for Buddhist organisations and has very little contact with the public. Although we do not run activities specifically for those with identifiable vulnerabilities such as those who are carers, or who live with mental illness or addiction, we recognise that people who may be vulnerable in these ways may attend our events from time to time.

Jo Backus is our Safeguarding contact. She is responsible for co-ordinating the Safeguarding of children and adults in all the activities of the NBO. (See also our Safeguarding Adults policy.) She is also responsible for making sure Safeguarding is taken seriously by the trustees and council and appears regularly on their agendas, ensuring the trustees and council comply with their Safeguarding obligations as required by the Charity Commission.

Who is an adult?

For the purposes of this policy an “adult” is a person who has passed their 18th birthday regardless of the legal age of majority in any jurisdiction.

Who is an adult who is vulnerable or “at risk”?

The UK Care Act 2014 defines such a person as “any person who is aged 18 years or over and at risk of abuse or neglect because of their needs for care and or support”; ie, they need care and support (whether or not the local authority is meeting any of those needs); and “Is experiencing, or at risk of, abuse or neglect; and as a result of those care and support needs, is unable to protect themselves from either the risk of, or the experience of, abuse or neglect”.

Adults who may be formally ‘at risk’ may also include those who

- have dementia
- have learning disabilities
- have mental health problems
- have drug, alcohol or substance dependency
- have physical or sensory disabilities
- have been bereaved, suffered grief and loss
- through age or illness are dependent on other people to help them
- live with domestic abuse
- are homeless
- are refugees or asylum seekers or
- for any reason may be considered not to have ‘mental capacity’. (See below.)

Whether or not a person is “vulnerable” or “at risk” in these cases will vary according to circumstances, and it should be noted that a person with a physical disability is not necessarily at risk, though they could be. Each case must be judged on its own merits.

What is ‘mental capacity’?

See appendix 3.

Vulnerability can be variable

Vulnerability and resilience can vary throughout a person’s life. Many people who are generally emotionally and psychologically stable in most aspects of their lives and would not be formally classified as vulnerable or ‘at risk’ may on occasion may find themselves in a more vulnerable position, e.g. after a bereavement, serious illness, or breakdown of a relationship. They may be new to Buddhist practice and it may make them more sensitive.

For example, we will bear in mind that a person who is emotionally vulnerable for any reason may not be able to make balanced decisions regarding giving money or becoming more involved with the NBO, or entering into intimate relationships, whether friendship or relationships which are more romantic or sexual in nature. We will take great care to help each other avoid exploiting people in such everyday situations of vulnerability.

Protecting those with psychological disorders

We are a networking organisation, not a teaching organisation. However, we recognise that there is a possibility we may be asked for guidance in Buddhist practice.

We are aware that those attending NBO activities may include adults experiencing psychological disorders ranging from mild to severe.

We recognise that as Buddhists we do not have the professional skills to diagnose or help people with psychological disorders and that they may not be helped solely by the kindness of Buddhists. In such cases we may need to advise them to seek professional help.

We are aware that for people with serious psychological disorders traditional Buddhist practices involving recognition of the illusion of self could be dangerous. We may need to encourage them in traditional Buddhist practices involving the calming of body and mind, or to avoid meditation – altogether, or during periods of relapse.

Where we believe a person to be at risk of self harm or suicide we will encourage them to contact their GP, mental health team or to go to the accident and emergency department of the local hospital. If necessary we will make the contact on their behalf, with their permission.

Where we consider there is immediate danger of a person harming themselves or others we will contact emergency services, without their permission if necessary.

DBS checks /Background security checks

If we should at any point run an activity intended for adults who are identifiably vulnerable or 'at risk' our Safeguarding contact will check with external Safeguarding experts Thirtyone:eight (www.thirtyoneeight.org) to ensure that anyone required to have a DBS check has been checked, and to the correct level. Thirtyone:eight provide an advice line and online DBS service.

We understand that the Charity Commission states that wherever there is a legal entitlement to a DBS check in respect of a trustee, employee or volunteer, a DBS check should be carried out, or we must be able to demonstrate that risk was managed in other ways. As the NBO has very few activities which bring it into contact with the public, and does not engage in any regulated activity with adults at risk, we consider that it is not necessary for our trustees or committee to be DBS checked. We will keep this under review and checks will be carried out should this change.

What is 'abuse'?

'Abuse' is not a legal term, but covers a number of ways in which a person may be deliberately harmed (legally or illegally), usually by someone who is in a position of power, trust or authority over them, or who may be perceived by that person to be in a position of power, trust or authority over them; for example by an NBO trustee or council member or a person leading an NBO event. The harm may be physical, psychological or emotional, or it may exploit the vulnerability of the person in more subtle ways.

However, harm can also occur less consciously, through naivety, idealism or lack of awareness.

Types of abuse

See Appendix 1.

Signs of abuse

See Appendix 2.

If you have a concern

All allegations or suspicions should be taken seriously and reported to our Safeguarding contact, at jdbacus@me.com.

If a person over 18 alleges abuseWe understand that we need to

- stay calm.
- listen patiently.
- reassure the person they are doing the right thing by speaking up.
- clarify issues of confidentiality early on. We will make it clear we may have to discuss their concerns with others, on a strictly need-to-know basis, if at all possible with their permission. (See below.)
- explain what we are going to do.
- write a factual account of what we have seen and heard, immediately.

We will do our best to avoid

- appearing shocked, horrified, disgusted or angry.
- pressing the individual for details.
- making comments or judgments other than to show concern. Our responsibility is to take them seriously, not to decide whether what they are saying is true.
- promising to keep secrets.
- confronting any alleged perpetrator.
- risking contaminating the evidence by investigating matters ourselves.

What we will do next

- We understand that our first concern must be the safety and wellbeing of this person and that we must not be distracted from this by loyalty to the person who has been accused or a desire to maintain the good name of Triratna or our charity.
- If the person receiving the disclosure is not our Safeguarding contact, they must tell the Safeguarding contact only, who will co-ordinate the handling of the matter on behalf of the charity's trustees. However, if the Safeguarding contact is not immediately available the matter should be communicated to the Chair of the charity or the Safeguarding trustee.
- We understand that every person has a legal right to privacy under the International Convention on Human Rights and data protection legislation; therefore if possible we need to get the person's consent to share the information they have given us, within the limits described here and below.
- If the adult alleging abuse is not formally vulnerable or 'at risk' and their complaint may be criminal, it is up to them to report to the police if they wish to; though we will offer them help and support to do this.
- If the person is formally vulnerable or 'at risk' we may report on their behalf, though with their permission if possible.
- Whether or not formally vulnerable or 'at risk', if the person may be in immediate danger the Safeguarding contact, Chair, Safeguarding trustee or person receiving the disclosure will phone social services or police straight away. A telephone referral will be confirmed in writing within 24 hours.

- It may be necessary, and therefore legally 'reasonable', to pass on information without the adult's consent if they may be at immediate risk of harm once they leave your company and/or a crime has been or is about to be committed; also if what is disclosed indicates that there is also a risk of harm to a child.
- The person receiving the disclosure will make detailed factual notes about the conversation/concern/incident as soon as possible, including time, date and location, and pass them to the NBO Safeguarding contact. (See 'Secure, confidential record-keeping' below.) As far as possible what the person has said should be recorded in their own words, as these could be used in court.
- We understand that no NBO trustee, council member or other volunteer should attempt to investigate a criminal allegation, that this is the job of the police and that to attempt this could prejudice a court case and put the parties in danger.

Finally, we may need to make external reports

- In England and Wales we may need to make a Serious Incident Report to the Charity Commission: <https://www.gov.uk/guidance/how-to-report-a-serious-incident-in-your-charity>.

Who else needs to know?

We understand that confidentiality, sharing information only on a need-to-know basis, is very important. Under data protection legislation nobody has a right to know about a case – except, for Safeguarding purposes, those in a position to prevent further harm, and our Chair, who holds ultimate responsibility for the governance of the charity.

This is not a matter of concealment but is intended to protect all concerned from further harm. It will also protect our sangha from fear, rumour and disharmony which will make it much harder to deal with the matter effectively without causing further harm.

Secure, confidential record-keeping

We understand our responsibility for secure and careful record-keeping. Our Safeguarding contact will keep a detailed log of all Safeguarding-related incidents as well as conversations, actions and the reasoning behind them. These should not be kept on any computer, but on an external hard drive or memory stick. To guard against loss in case the files, hard drive or memory stick become corrupted these will be backed up to a secure cloud-based system such as Proton Drive and may be printed off. Any memory sticks, hard drives or paper copies will be stored in a locked cabinet, box or drawer accessible only to the Safeguarding contact and one or two others approved by our trustees, eg the Chair and Safeguarding trustee.

We also understand that under data protection law we need to word our records in a form we would be happy for the subjects to read if they ask to, as is their legal right. This means notes should be factual and respectful, free of interpretations and value-judgements.

Keeping confidential records

We understand that because many abuse cases come to light 30 or more years later we should keep our records for up to 50 years. This is important in order to address historical cases effectively but also for insurance purposes.

If our charity closes down, we will give our records to another Buddhist charity to keep with their own confidential Safeguarding logs.

Reviewing our policies annually

This document was adopted by the trustees and council of the NBO on 6th March 2025.

This NBO Adult Safeguarding policy is to be read in conjunction with the

Appendix I

Definitions of abuse in adults

In the UK we have a legal duty to prevent or address the following types of harm to adults who may be vulnerable or 'at risk'.

The list below also provides a guide as to the types of harm we should be alert to prevent or address in the case of all adults, as does the list at this link, from the Charity Commission for England and Wales <https://www.gov.uk/guidance/safeguarding-duties-for-charity-trustees>

As defined in the UK Care Act 2014, Safeguarding duties apply to an adult who is defined as vulnerable or 'at risk' because they

- have need for care and support (whether or not the local authority is meeting any of those needs) and;
- are experiencing, or at risk of, abuse or neglect; and
- as a result of those care and support needs are unable to protect themselves from either the risk of, or the experience of abuse or neglect.

Physical abuse – including assault, hitting, slapping, pushing, misuse of medication, restraint or inappropriate physical sanctions.

Domestic violence – including psychological, physical, sexual, financial, emotional abuse; so called 'honour-based' violence.

Sexual abuse – including rape, indecent exposure, sexual harassment, inappropriate looking or touching, sexual teasing or innuendo, sexual photography, subjection to pornography or witnessing sexual acts, indecent exposure and sexual assault or sexual acts to which the adult has not consented or was pressured into consenting.

Psychological abuse – including emotional abuse, threats of harm or abandonment, deprivation of contact, humiliation, blaming, controlling, intimidation, coercion, harassment, verbal abuse, cyber bullying, isolation or unreasonable and unjustified withdrawal of services or supportive networks.

Financial or material abuse – including theft, fraud, internet scamming, coercion in relation to an adult's financial affairs or arrangements, including in connection with wills, property, inheritance or financial transactions, or the misuse or misappropriation of property, possessions or benefits.

Modern slavery – encompasses slavery, human trafficking, forced labour and domestic servitude. Traffickers and slave masters use whatever means they have at their disposal to coerce, deceive and force individuals into a life of abuse, servitude and inhumane treatment.

Discriminatory abuse – including forms of harassment, slurs or similar treatment; because of race, gender and gender identity, age, disability, sexual orientation or religion.

Organisational abuse – including neglect and poor care practice within an Institution or specific care setting such as a hospital or care home, for example, or in relation to care provided in one's own home. This may range from one off incidents to on-going ill-treatment. It can be through neglect or poor professional practice as a result of the structure, policies, processes and practices within an organisation.

Neglect and acts of omission – including ignoring medical, emotional or physical care needs, failure to provide access to appropriate health, care and support or educational services, the withholding of the necessities of life, such as medication, adequate nutrition and heating.

Self-neglect – this covers a wide range of behaviour neglecting to care for one's personal hygiene, health or surroundings and includes behaviour such as hoarding. Incidents of abuse may be one-off or multiple, and affect one person or more.

Appendix 2

Signs of abuse in adults

Physical abuse

- History of unexplained falls, fractures, bruises, burns, minor injuries.
- Signs of under or over use of medication and/or medical problems left unattended.

- Dirt, urine or faecal smells
- Home environment does not meet basic needs (for example heating or lighting)
- Depression

Appendix 3

What is 'mental capacity'?

Whether a person has mental capacity is a matter of specialist assessment by social and mental health services. However, it may be useful to know something about it.

Mental capacity is the ability to make a particular decision. An adult may be at risk if they are unable to make a decision due to illness, disability, poor mental health, dementia, a learning disability or something else that may impair their judgment.

A person may be deemed to be 'without capacity' if they cannot:

- understand a decision
- retain information
- weigh up information
- communicate their decision

About matters such as

- finance
- social care
- medical treatment
